Dear Old NCC

*The sloping hills, the verdant green,
The lovely blossoms heavenly seen, surround our college proud and gay,
Where wave our colors, Maroon
and Gray.
What matters it how far we roam,
Our thoughts will oft return to home.
And hearts will e'er be true to thee,
Our Alma Mater, NCC.*

*We've gathered here to fit our lives,
As from the darkness, light revives.
So let us hail both night and day,
Our glorious colors, Maroon and*

*Gray,
We'll ever love and honor thee,
For thou hast taught us loyalty,
Then let our watch-word "Service"
be to Alma Mater, NCC.*

*You send us forth, with hearts of love
So like a blessing from above,
And from the path we'll never stray,
Our dear Alma Mater, Maroon and
Gray.
We'll work and fight, we'll win our way,
When duty calls we shall obey,
And may we e'er return to thee,
Our Alma Mater, NCC.*

CHORUS

*Then Hail! Hail! Hail! for our colors
so gay,
Dear Old NCC's Maroon and Gray!
Thy sons and daughters will honor thee,
Dear Old NCC.*

Going On!

The Founder

James E. Shepard was born November 3, 1875, in Raleigh, the son of Reverend Samuel Augustus and Harriet Whitted Shepard. He received his undergraduate and professional training at Shaw University, from which he graduated in 1894. In 1895, Dr. Shepard married Annie Day Robinson. They had two daughters, Marjorie and Annie.

In 1910, Dr. Shepard founded this institution as a center for religious training and named it the National Religious Training School and Chautauqua. Later it was renamed the National Training School. In its early years, the school was kept afloat by the philanthropy of Dr. Shepard's friends from both the North and South. When the General Assembly of North Carolina provided support in 1923, the name changed once again to become Durham State Normal School.

Dr. Shepard faced great difficulties in keeping the doors open. He traveled many miles, made many physical and financial sacrifices, and always managed to uplift his race as he went on. He had faith and believed that his faith would pay off in abundant dividends.

In 1925, the institution became North Carolina College for Negroes, the first state-supported, liberal arts college for blacks in the United States. Its first four-year college class graduated in 1929. In 1947, the college's name was changed to North Carolina College at Durham. The 1969 General Assembly made the institution of the state's regional universities and changed the name, finally, to North Carolina Central University.

At his time of death, Dr. Shepard had guided this university from its humble beginnings to great heights in higher education. He left a memorial of service and achievement which may be emulated by all persons connected with North Carolina Central University.

North Carolina Central University Museum Of Art

The North Carolina Central University's Art Museum had it's beginnings in a small room of the Old Fine Arts building. Later it moved to a larger space in the Old Cafeteria building and finally to the building in which it now resides. Today, the Art Museum exists as a separate facility that is comprised of a main gallery and offices.

The North Carolina Central University Art Museum was dedicated on Founders Day, November 4, 1977. The facility was designed to house the University's growing art collection and temporary exhibitions. The museum represents the culmination of a dream that can be traced back to the earliest days of art instruction on the campus.

Throughout the history of the Museum there has been an emphasis on the presentation of art exhibits that expose the campus community to a broad array of visual art forms. Particularly, the Museum has featured the works of the all-too-often overlooked minority artists.

In addition to special exhibits, the Museum maintains a permanent collection. The main focus of the Museum is African-American art. However, it's collection is by no means limited to African-American art. It includes European, African, and Oceanic works.

So, for keeping our heritage alive, hats-off to North Carolina Central University's Museum of Art because they have it going on.

Registration

There are few things in life that are constant. The rising of the sun, the pull of gravity and the long lines during registration.

Hot or cold, Spring or Fall, the lines during registration will be long. You will encounter long lines at financial aid, the bursar's office and academic advising. It's automatic, you'll have to go back to the Financial Aid Office at least twice and your final bill will be more than the bill you received in the mail.

So you had better preregister or be prepared to stand in the broiling sun, soaking rain or freezing cold. Because you will be in long registration lines.

Chancellor Dr. Tyronza Richmond

Confident and prestigious, yet down to earth, Dr. Tyronza Richmond is a man of many talents. Whether the question concerns politics, human nature or education; his students, colleagues and family would all agree that Dr. Richmond usually has the answer. Like a small spark that grows into a brilliant flame, Dr. Richmond has grown on many levels to arrive at his current status as Chancellor. Coming from a poor background, Dr. Richmond was most inspired by his teachers who encouraged him to "Be all that he could be." Taking their advice, he graduated from high school and was accepted at many world known universities. Earning his undergraduate degree from Fisk University with Honors, Masters degree from American University and Ph.D from Purdue University in Operations Research, this young man was ready for the future's challenges.

Dr. Richmond worked at the U.S. Naval Weapons Laboratory in Dahlgren, VA and started his teaching career at Syracuse University in Syracuse, NY. Later, he served as associate professor until he was drafted to be Assistant Dean in the School of Business at Howard University in Washington, D.C. Knowing he was no ordinary "barn yard fowl," Dr. Tyronza Richmond found his home here in Durham among the mighty "Eagles" of NCCU, as Dean of the School of Business in 1977. And on July 1, 1986 he became Chancellor of the University.

A Chat With The Chancellor

We often see the Chancellor at various public functions, but do we really know him? Well we, the yearbook staff had the unique opportunity to interview the chancellor, to get his views on the "mighty students" of NCCU.

Q. What do you a) like and b) dislike about NCCU students?

A. a) I'm impressed by NCCU students' aggressive attitudes toward learning, their deep concern for the future, and their strong sense of self-awareness.
b) I dislike when the drug epidemic hits home and destroys NCCU students.

Q. How do you feel about the negative T.V. and newspaper coverage on Fred Feely dealing with his qualifications as SGA president at NCCU?

A. Right now we are in the midst of a press war between two major local newspapers therefore when something happens on campus, NCCU makes news. Concerning the Feely situation students against him presented incorrect information to the press. Giving that type of information to the general public is non-productive for us. It is usually respectful, to keep situations like that close to home.

Q. What advice do you have for students in accomplishing their goals?

- A. 1. Set goals early
2. Cultivate good work habits
3. Get involved in extra curricular activities

The Chancellor's Office

Bill Evans
Assistant To Chancellor

Bill Evans, assistant to the Chancellor, was the man behind the scenes in the Chancellor's office. Known as the "postponement man," he was the person who helped students in need of financial assistance to stay in school.

Mr. Evans graduated with honors from NCCU in 1960. Afterwards, he taught in public schools in Virginia and Philadelphia for six years. Mr. Evans returned to NCCU as the Director of Alumni Affairs in 1971. He was appointed University and Community Relations Director in 1980 and assumed his present position in 1988.

Legal Affairs

Acie Ward
Assistant To The Chancellor/Legal

Have you ever wondered who advised the university in tough legal matters during 1989-90? Well, Acie Ward, the Assistant to the Chancellor for Legal Affairs, was the woman who advised and counseled various departments in the university on numerous legal issues. Mrs. Ward served as the liaison to the University of North Carolina — General Administration through the Assistant to the President and the North Carolina Attorney General.

Yes, whenever the question arose concerning the legality, Acie Ward, was the University administrator who provided the answer.

Claudia Kirkley

I The Vice Chancellors

Academic Affairs

Dr. Mickey L. Burnium

The strength of the University is determined by the quality of its faculty and their instruction. During 1989-90, the Division of Academic Affairs continued to strengthen teaching, learning and research at the University. The academic year kicked-off with the Faculty Institute and continued with workshops and programs to improve teaching. The Department of Education was upgraded to the School of Education, with Dr. Walter Brown appointed as interim dean. A new emphasis was placed on the various honors and advanced academic programs.

The Division of Academic Affairs was headed by Dr. Mickey Burnium and included:

- The Admissions Office
- The College of Arts and Sciences
- The Law School
- The Office for Research, Evaluating and Planning
- The Office for Academic Advising
- The School of Business
- The School of Education
- The School of Graduate Studies
- The School of Library and Information Science
- The University College
- The University Registrar

Throughout the year, the Division of Academic Affairs worked to enhance the quality of education at NCCU.

Developmental Affairs

Mr. Robert S. Poole

The 1989-90 year was a good year for the Division of Development.

The Development Office is located in the Hoey Administration Building. Mrs. Teresa Taylor, an NCCU alumnae, Class of '70, is the Director of the Development Office and Ms. Renee Wright is Associate Director. Ms. Wright, responsible for corporate and foundation relations, has made inroads with local and national businesses to secure more financial support for the University. Through the Business Associate Program, area corporate personnel were recruited to solicit funds from their peers and employers. During 1989-90 the Office renewed its efforts to develop a strong Alumni Association and Reunion Gift Program. These efforts were spear-headed by Mr. Ellis Smith, Director of Alumni Relations, Class of '61 and '70.

The Division of Development Affairs was headed by Mr. Robert Poole and included:

- Alumni Affairs
- Athletics
- Campus Security
- The Development Office
- The News Bureau
- The Office of University and Community Relations
- The Office of Public Relations

During the year, the Division continued to pursue funds and relationships that would support the University's mission.

Financial Affairs Student Affairs

Dr. Herbert N. Watkins

The Division of Financial Affairs continued its efforts insure that the financial operations for the various activities occurring at the University were on sound footing. One major component of the modernization of services were the computerization of the Purchasing and Accounts Payable departments. In addition, during the year, the Division instituted several self supporting services such the "new and improved" University Bookstore and a university wide ticket operations.

The Division of Financial Affairs was headed by Dr. Herbert Watkins and included:

- Accounts Payable
- The Budget Office
- The Bursar's Office
- The Comptroller's Office
- The Financial Office
- Food Service
- The Grants Office
- The Office of Data Processing
- The Payroll Office
- The Personnel Office
- The Purchasing Office

During the year, the Division of Financial Affairs monitor the business function of the University and ensure compliance with state and federal regulations.

Dr. Roland Buchanan

During the year, the Division of Financial Affairs monitor the business function of the University and ensure compliance with state and federal regulations.

In 1989-90, the staff in the Division of Student Affairs again worked with the Student Government Association and other student groups on programs and activities that added a little excitement to life at NCCU. Student Affairs personnel were major players in putting together the New Student Orientation Program, the Homecoming Show, the Parent's Weekend, and Student Appreciation Week. But, more importantly, on a day-to-day basis, Student Affairs personnel provided support and assistance to individual students. Helping and advising with roommates problems, out-of-bounds situations and all types of emergencies, the Student Affairs staff were intimately involved with the students and their daily lives.

The Division of Student Affairs was headed by Dr. Roland Buchanan and included:

- The Career Counseling and Placement Center
- The Counseling Center
- The Infirmary and Student Health Services
- The Office of Student Life
- The Student Activities Office
- The Student Union

During 1989-90 the many departments of the Divisions of Student Affairs continued to provide that support to students that said, "We Care."

High School Day '89

On a rainy, September morning thousands of high school students poured into NCCU's A. Elder Student Union for High School Day. Then the program moved to McDougald Gym, where NCCU's Chancellor Tyrone Richmond and Student Government President Fred Feely welcomed the students and their parents to EAGLELAND. Following this, the students and parents were then divided into three groups and they visited the different academic departments.

The students, along with their parents attended a Financial Aid workshop in the Criminal Justice Auditorium and a Career Counseling presentation in McDougald Gym. Students ate lunch in W.G. Pearson Cafeteria. Afterwards, parents and students returned to McDougald Gym for a Pre-Game Show that included: a stepshow by the Greek Organizations, an introduction of the Basketball Team, several cheers led by the cheerleading squad, and the school's Alma Mater performed by the Marching Band.

High School Day concluded with a wet and sloppy actioned packed football game with Hampton University. Unfortunately, the EAGLES lost, however, this loss did not spoil the excitement for the EAGLES and their high school guests.

High School students come in by the bus loads.

It's The Carla Williams Show

The Carla Williams Show, NCCU's answer to Geraldo and Oprah, had become a big hit on campus in the past two years. With a variety of topics that ranged from campus issues to love and romance, Carla's show has gotten right to the heart of the matter. The show allowed students, faculty and outsiders to voice their opinions, share information, and learn more about themselves, as well as one another.

Carla's first show of the year was nothing less than intriguing. The topic: Dating and Male/Female Relationships on Campus. It really hit home for the room-filling audience that attended. Carla interviewed a panel of guests composed of Central students. The issues of male/female ratio, the treatment of women by men and vice versa, different beliefs and numerous contradictions surfaced as the show progressed.

"Robin, I see what you're saying, but not all men are like that."

Many of the women in the audience had a lot to say about the men's point of view.

The men of the audience attentively listen as Carla questioned the panel.

Topic: Male/Female Relationships

"Now wait a minute. I strongly disagree."

With every response, the crowd became more willing to participate. Soon Carla opened the floor for audience response. In general, the men challenged the women's points of view and the women took on the men. Back and forth issues, opinions, and comments flew. The experience was educational, entertaining, and left a mark on everyone involved. Even after the show was over, both the panel guests and the audience remained to continue the discussion.

Haben Sie Feuer?

Did You Have Fire?

On October 27, around 10 a.m., onlookers watched as thin, white, wispy smoke developed into billowing black fumes of destruction. Someone shouted, "Fire! Rush is on fire! It's burning up! It's burning up!" The damage was extensive and very costly in more ways than one. Michelle Askew and Toni Knight, the victims of the dorm room fire, lost most of their belongings to the smoke and flames. Fellow Eagles gave donations of money, clothing, and personal items without a second thought.

A fire investigator takes a minute to catch some fresh air.

Where Is My %!?!% Car?

It's Been TOWED!

TOWING! WHO DOES IT BENEFIT?

"Due to the lack of parking space, towing has been enforced on the Campus of North Carolina Central University this year," Security reported.

Kisha Alston, a junior, says, "Since towing has been enforced it has benefited me. Before towing was enforced it was hard for me to find a place to park, and it was not fair that persons who did not purchase a parking sticker were allowed to park on campus. I had purchased a sticker and could not locate a parking space."

On the other hand security's zealous enforcement of towing did not benefit Antione Burton, a junior. Antione was parked in the lot at Chidley Hall, and to his dismay, when he walked outside, his car was gone. It had been towed. Later it was discovered that due to a security mix up, his car had been towed by mistake.

Finally, it was reported to the EAGLE yearbook office that a red Nissan Stanza (left) had been illegally parked in front of the Physical Plant Building everyday in 1989-90. Although the car was illegally parked everyday was never towed. According to our anonymous source this incident had been brought to the attention of Campus Security and nothing had been done.

"Shine
On Me."

Students made their way to catch a glimpse of the award winning entertainer, Vanessa Bell Armstrong. Dismayed at first by the prospect of having to wait for a week due to a date mix-up, the crowd was enthused about seeing and hearing the acclaimed entertainer.

Vanessa Bell Armstrong was introduced by her manager. When she finally appeared the crowd was overjoyed. The Grammy Award winning entertainer answered a variety of questions coming from the audience.

Before she departed she gave a rendition of the song from the TV sit-com "AMEN", "Shine on Me". The crowd departed with ringing in their ears and smiles on their faces.

- Who's Who At NCCU -

In 1989-90 there were over three hundred students involved in the various advanced academic programs at NCCU. These programs included the English Club, Phi Beta Lambda, Sigma Tau Delta, Teaching Fellows, Honors Program and Who's Who. The programs are designed for highly motivated and talented students. Participants receive an in-depth experience in their major concentrations. To accommodate these aspiring scholars, the programs' emphasis is placed on personal initiative, independence, and creativity. These programs provide that special edge for those hoping to attend graduate or professional schools. The programs have an academic coordinator and all programs report through the Dean of the University College, Dr. John Ruffin.

The First Day Of Classes

"Where is the ECB building?" the confused, but cute freshmen coed asked. "Up the hill, pass the track" replied the upperclassmen.

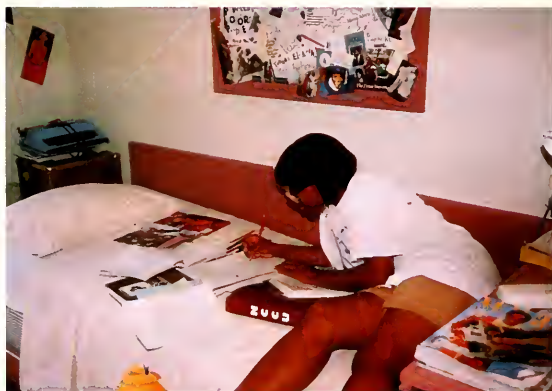

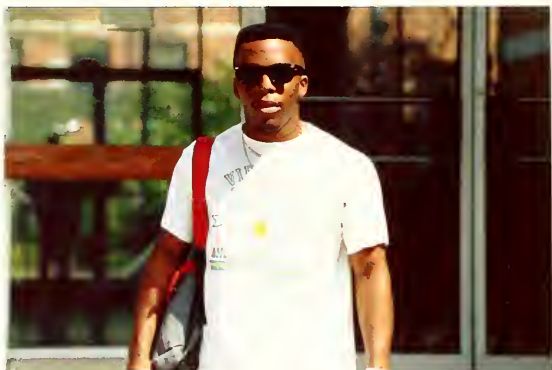

"Who do you have for health?" "Dr. Ruth." Chuckle, chuckle.

"Are you going to the Communications Building?" "Yes, maybe so, more than likely, but my car broke down on the highway and the soup was green."

It's the first day of classes and everybody is confused. Freshmen and new students walk around lost and trying to familiarize themselves with the University. While, upperclassmen are scheming — trying to be added to an already full class, working on an extension, and explaining why they didn't call over the summer. "But baby, you know you are the one!"

Friendships are being forged and renewed, impromptu parties are being thrown and SGA is planning that first Block Party on George Street.

"Yo, whaddup mahn," the homeboy says. "No, you the mahn," replied Bo. "Nah, YOU THE MAHN," the homeboy reaffirmed.

It's A Twin Thang!!!

NCCU has an abundance of TWINS. Some are identical and other fraternal. The Junior Class has been blessed with three sets of fraternal twins. One thing that makes these twins even more special is the fact that, "THE GIRLS ARE THE OLDEST!!" Wandria says, "the only problem is most people do not know Earl is my brother." The same goes for Paul and Laureece. "They think Laureece is my sister and not my twin."

TWINS DO THE STAIRCASE POSE: from (front to back) Wandria and Earl Hines, Laureece and Paul Woodson, and Hettie and Howard Eason.

Sisters — Hettie Eason, Wandria Hines, and Laureece Woodson.
Brothers — Howard Eason, Earl Hines, and Paul Woodson.

Paul And Laureece Woodson

Twins are the closest of sibblings. It's easy to get along with someone you have so much in common with!!!!

Paul and Laureece are sister and brother in Blood and in Greekdom. Paul is a member of Omega Psi Phi and Laureece is a member of Delta Sigma Theta.

Name: Paul Kyle and Laureece Andrea Woodson
Birthdate: February 14, 1969 (Valentine's Day)
Minutes apart: 14

Hettie And Howard Eason

Name: Hettie Jane and Howard Wayne Eason
 Birthdate: September 8, 1969
 Minutes apart: 20

Although we are compared constantly, having a twin brother is really no different than a regular brother. The only unique thing is that we are born on the same day instead of years apart. We've been together so long, until it seemed natural for us to attend the same college.

My mother didn't know she was having twins. It was a great surprise to the doctors, nurses and the family. Everyone was packing up to leave and then came Howard twenty minutes after me.

Wandria And Earl Hines

Name: Wiley Earl, Jr and Wandria Eral Hines
 Birthdate: June 15, 1969
 Minutes apart: 6

Wandria is a member of NABA, NAACP, SGA Executive Board, and the AX Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha. Earl is a member of NAACP, Vice-President of SGA and a member of the Gamma Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha.

Twins are very unique as is the bond that unites them. "Ours is a special one which is nearly indescribable."

FOXY 107 FM

WFXC_{FM} THE STRONG SONG STATION

The most listened to radio station at North Carolina Central University in 1989-90 was WFXC FOXY 107 FM. During the academic year, FOXY broadcasted various events held here at Eagleland. These events included several blood drives, open forums and public polls.

Jessica Johnson, an NCCU student, won two tickets in a FOXY sponsored drawing that promoted the Bill Cosby concert held at UNC — Chapel Hill's Smith Center.

While FOXY representatives gave out FOXY t-shirts, hats, bumper stickers and other promotional paraphernalia, NCCU students tuned into the booming bass.

Freshmen can be "Foxy", too. Marcus Ingram, Dionne Ingram, Faye Middlebrooks, Leah Ann Owens, and Kerrie Mckinley

Year's First Pep Rally

Eagle turn out was great. Students, faculty, and friends gathered together to cheer the football team to victory. That mighty Eagle Sound Machine gave the crowd a taste of some new funk, the cheerleaders shook their thangs, and the crowd proceeded to jam to the sounds of a local DJ. The height of the entire event, however, was the crowd's collective effort doing the Electric Slide. Who could do it better than the Eagles?

Fade To Black

"This is a time when ignorance is no longer bliss, but an autoban that leads to annihilation."

This is the introductory line to "FADE TO BLACK", a multi-facet play written and produced by Edward Harris, a junior majoring in media journalism. The play exposed the conditions and the consciousness or lack of it that exist in the contemporary society. With a cast of 14 and a crew of nine, Mr. Harris presented his play, his concerns, and message to the campus on November 27-29. The production was an overwhelming success.

Come, let's Fade to Black.

Escape

I need to get away for a little while,
things are so bad now I wanna forget,
I wanna smile.

I'll do it another way if I could,
but these pharmaceuticals that are available
let me Escape, let me feel good.

I find myself doing them in growing abundance, sober's becoming a nightmare filled with cravings and incompetence.

I work so hard, so long for the American Dream, and I'm taxed and put down so much I'm sure not one can blame me.

You see,
I just wanna get away.
Escape reality for a short time.
Tired of being ridiculed and put down,
Being pushed off that social ladder
I'm trying to climb.

Yo Brother

Yo brother, quit the stupidity, release the anger and hate
Re-evaluate what you take stock in Yo brother, the times ain't looking good right now
All this crime, murder and theft
the plan is working and soon there won't be any of us left

Yo brother, that destruction ain't your real nature
put that thing down!
Free your mind, and learn don't allow yourself to be turned into an ignorant clown

Yo brother, we all feel that pain you feel,
the frustration that boils inside
the high demands and bad reputations
But killing a brother and going to jail only makes the plan successful and you fail

I March On

Once again I walk alone
the cold is much colder and the nights are much longer
O, how happy I am for what I had though now very sad.
I march on

Once again I walk alone
forced into the endless wonders that burn men's souls rearranging my perspectives, my values, my goals.
I march on

Once again I walk alone
out to understand and challenge the unknown and though the hate of the world chills me to the bone.
I march on

ΩΨΦ

Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. was the first men's greek letter organization to be established on a black college campus. It was founded on November 17, 1911 at Howard University, Washington D.C. by Bishop Edgar A. Love, Dr. Ernest E. Just, Prof. Frank Coleman, and Dr. Oscar J. Cooper. The fraternity was incorporated October 28, 1914. Omega Psi Phi was founded by men who adopted the ideals of "Manhood, Scholarship, Perseverance, and Uplift" as their four Cardinal Principles. The Brothers of Omega Psi Phi adhere to the motto: "Friendship is essential to the soul."

The Mighty Tau Psi Chapter was founded here at NCCU on October 28, 1932 by W.D. Hill, W.G. Pearson and Jimmie Jones. Omega Psi Phi is the largest black greek letter organization. The fraternity is composed of an elite group of men dedicated to the improvement of society and the betterment of all mankind.

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. was incorporated at Howard University, Washington, D.C. on January 16, 1914 by five black women. The sorority seeks to reach college women in all parts of the country who desire to follow the ideals and objectives of their founders. These objectives of womanhood, scholarship, service, and sisterly love have brought together women of various professions.

Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc. was founded on January 9, 1914 on the campus of Howard University. The fraternity's first brothers were: A. Langston Taylor, Charles I. Brown, and Leonard F. Morse. The Fraternity displays the ideas and principles of brotherhood, scholarship and service. Since its beginning, thousands of men, including George Washington Carver, have crossed the Burning sands of sigmadoxim and abide by the motto of "Culture for Service and Service for Humanity."

RELIGION

Religion On The College Campus Is On The Rise . . .

Religion on the college campus is on the rise. Students are feeling impressed to spread the Gospel through literature, songs, witnessing, Bible studies, and much more. Realizing that the "coming of the Lord is near", religion will continue to be a subject of much concern, not only to the gospel advocates, but also to the recipients. Life on this earth will definitely end and eternity awaits the fate of all.

Religion

Presently there are seven religious organizations on NCCU's campus. These organizations are the Pentecostal Fellowship Organization, STAR (Students for the Apostolic Revival), BSU (Baptist Student Union), Chosen Generation, Westminster, Wesley Foundation, and the Worship and Praise Inspirational Mass Choir. Most of these organizations have a tremendous impact on student life. Their aim is to minister to people on and off campus through sponsoring worship services, singing, outreach projects, and fundraising for various community needs.

One of the most important aspects of these various organizations is that they set examples of what it is to live a moral and meaningful life. Many students on campus have had their spiritual needs met through the guidance and examples of these organizations.

Pentecostal Fellowship

The Pentecostal Fellowship, started in 1961 but revitalized in 1971, is a student led, church related, Christ-centered organization that seeks to provide a balanced ministry of Christian growth and service. Its motto is: "Where there is unity, there is strength; communication is the key."

The Reverend Paige L. Chargois is a native Virginian having received her early education in the Richmond Public School System. She is a graduate of Austin Peay State University, Clarksville, TN, with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology and Journalism.

After being licensed into the Gospel Ministry by First Baptist Church, Norfolk, Virginia, she completed her ministerial preparation at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, KY. She was the first female minister licensed and ordained at either of these churches and continued to be widely received in hundreds of churches within the USA and has preached, taught, evangelized and engaged in missions on four continents of the world while living in or traveling through 29 different countries.

Rev. Chargois is the former Managing Editor of the National Baptist Voice newspaper. She has also served as Assistant and Associate Pastor in several churches as well as Director of Christian Education and Minister of Missions during the 10 years of ministry. She has served as a Summer Missionary in both New Orleans, LA, and Baltimore, MD.

Rev. Chargois has received numerous awards, citations and honors throughout school from churches and community groups. In 1981 she was named "Outstanding Young Woman of American," and in 1984 she was honored as "A Woman in the Bethune Tradition" awarded by the National Council of Negro Women for her service to the community.

She is a member of the national organization of Campus Ministry Women, the National Baptist Student Union Advisors, NAACP, the Mental Health Association, YWCA and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc., as well as both the Durham Ministers Association and the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance.

Perhaps many would wonder why a person would give their lives and careers to "campus ministry?" My only answer, beyond the fact that young people are in need of caring folk around them to help them stretch towards responsible adulthood, is that everyone decides how they will either change the world or contribute to the improvement and/or maintenance of its systems in one way or another.

As a deeply committed Christian person, I came to understand that the real hope of the church (among humanity) was in its youth and young leaders. Therefore, as God led me, I resolved that the church would be better in its future days because of what God, through me, would be able to develop in the lives of christian collegians in this present day. God has often used young people to "lead" within His kingdom and in the kingdoms of this world to change and improve them as it is easily witnessed throughout history.

Working within a college community is exciting. Being able to create organizations and opportunities through which collegians can grow into mature Christian leaders for the years yet to come. It is truly a joy working with such talented, committed, interesting, and capable young people here at NCCU! Truly, they are "light at the end of the tunnel" of despair about destructive, drug-laden, "don't carish" youth that is the cry of the national media. THERE IS HOPE, and much of that hope is found in the lives of these young eagles who are learning to fly to new and grander heights!

I am proud to serve the students, faculty and staff of EAGLELAND.

Pastor Hubert Beck began working at North Carolina Central University in 1984. Pastor Beck's responsibilities here on our campus include; keeping in touch with and gathering Lutheran students in various settings during the school year. He also co-operates with the United Christian Campus Ministry in programming, conducting services and other activities. In addition, he serves as a "resource person" for staff people such as dorm supervisors, those in residential life, and others who may seek or need support, help, information, on religious levels of life.

Pastor Beck makes himself available to students in a variety of walks of university life such as student resident advisors, members of honors classes with which he assists, and anyone who may seek him out in a time of need. He attempts to create contacts between students, faculty and staff at NCCU and DUKE, where he also serves as Lutheran Campus Pastor.

Pastor Beck keeps regular office hours in his Baynes Hall Office for anyone who may wish to drop by to visit with him or who may seek counsel with him.

Speak Lovingly

*Speak lovingly and kindly,
While here on earth we stay;
Our life is but a shadow
That soon will glide away.*

*One little word of kindness
On some poor heart may fall,
Like beams from yonder golden sun
That brightly shines for all.*

*Speak lovingly and kindly;
O let the task be our
To scatter by the wayside —
Not thorns, but smiling flowers.*

*Though crowned with peace and plenty
Our happy homes may be,
Remember those around us Less favored for than we.*

*Speak lovingly and kindly;
For He our Lord, we know,
To us will show the kindness
That we to others show.*

More Than Faces In The Crowd

Here at North Carolina Central University, individuals are more than faces in the crowd. Behind those faces are vibrant personalities, different experiences, and wide ranges of attitudes. We take great pride in introducing you to some of those faces in the crowds of 1989-90.

Eagle Athletics always brings out the crowds.

The patio is the perfect place to find that friendly face.

DANCES — BALLS

There are dances and then there are balls. Dances are sponsored by different clubs and organizations to raise money or sometimes by the University to give students a break. Balls are special events organized to create an evening of elegance and sophistication. Throughout the year there were several dances, but there were only two balls.

The first was "The Simply Red Ball", held at the Sheraton University Center on February 22, sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. The second was "The Four Shades of Alpha Ball", held at the Durham Arts Council on April 5, sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

Both balls were organized with meticulous care and provided the students, faculty, and staff with an occasion to dress in "Tuxes and Tails" and "Gowns and Spangles".

Our Legacy . . .

Coming at you, steadily growing smarter, swifter, our legacy — children with eyes to melt the soul and to soothe the heart. With all the confidence of a new world, they know no limitations except those we teach them. Our legacy, the children.

Here at Eagleland, we take a special interest in the welfare of children. From our day-care center to our Edu-care program, we are investing in the children; a future generation of Eagles. As we learn and care for them, we learn and care for ourselves. The children in our midst are a constant reminder that each of us is a role model and we must conduct ourselves appropriately. Quite simply, they remind us of our responsibilities, our obligations and purpose.

The Children

Plus, its always wise to remember that each of us is somebodies child. As we invest in the children, we invest in ourselves.

When It's Time To Relax

School can be very demanding with assignments, exams, and term papers many times due around weekends, breaks, and holidays. So to relax and unwind, some students headed for the Union where they could engage in challenging games of pool or ping pong. Others chose to relieve anxiety by playing spades or by tackling a video game or two.

Many students found that the Walker Complex was the perfect place to pound away frustration. There, students could exercise and lift weights to release unwanted tension. People could ease their minds while toning their bodies.

For those who were more musically inclined, playing an instrument and singing tended to take away stress.

Remember. Take time out to RELAX.
Tomara-Maria Simmons

When Farrakhan Speaks . . .

Minister Louis Farrakhan, the dynamic leader of the Nation of Islam, commonly referred to as the "Black Muslims," spoke on campus in McDougald Gymnasium. The program was attended by those of interested students, community members, the press, and those of Muslim faith.

Accompanied by the "Fruit of Islam" and his son, Farrakhan spoke and the world listened. Minister Farrakhan's message was centered around the education or mis-education of the Black man. His message was laced with historical anecdote as he chronicled the plight of disenfranchised people of color from a national and international perspective. Focusing on the contemporary issues which plague our society, Farrakhan made the observations that our educational, and medical systems are ineffective.

He noted that our teachers are unable to teach our children, our medical doctors are unable to cure our ills, and our economists are unable to solve our nation's financial problems. Yet, each year our universities continue to graduate individuals called teachers, doctors and economists. He challenged our historically Black university to become a vehicle for the liberation, rather than the continued suppression of the Black man.

Farrakhan concluded with a call to Islam as the "true religion."

The World Listens . . .

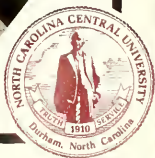

It's All About That Eagle Funk!

It's almost half-time at O'Kelly stadium. The Eagle band leaves their aluminum perch to display their talents in song and dance. As they do their dynamic Eagle march to the field, excitement, hinged with a bit of anticipation, falls on the crowd. Little boys begin to imitate the drummers by beating imaginary drums. Subconsciously, others start moving to the funky Eagle beat.

Then it happens. The Sound Machine takes to the field. The drum majors, Spell and Demo, take control of the field with the rest of the band. However, they just don't march ... they rock, bounce, and sway to the latest hits. And if that wasn't enough, the Machine drives the crowd mad with the new freak of the week. From the running man to the little man, the band gets the crowd's approval with overwhelming shouts and cheers.

Knowing that they have completed the best routine, the Sound Machine marches back to the stands for a well deserved break. But, they don't keep quiet for long. They get that Eagle Spirit. From the go-go cadences to the chants of boom-chicka-boom, they keep the crowds pepped around them.

something that needs to be heard.
N.C.C.U. they're a real band word!!

They're gettin' funky ... they're gettin' funky ...

They're gettin' funky ... they're gettin' funky ...

And if by now you ain't got the notion
Watch them do it in still motion!!

Ahhhh Yeahhhh!!! And the Sound does not stop. They keep it going throughout the SEE-EYE-DOUBLE-AYE, every Saturday to the day. With vicious cadences, the Sound Machine slith-ers like a Cold Hearted Snake. But, in the Heat of the Moment they strike the heart and shower you with songs of emotion. But when It's Over, they Let Go, and Turn this Mutha Out!!

They are the party band ...
They party like no one else can ...
Back To Life they will bring you ...
Workin' it all the way thru!!

"You want to take our picture? Do What Cha Like."

See what those long nights do for ya!

Maxin' on the yard.

Lady Eagles "Got It Goin' On."

How far has your LOST COOL POINT METER dropped in the past week? Have you lost more than 100 points in one day? A simple task such as walking across the parking lot, climbing the stairs, opening a door, or talking to a friend can all be deadly to your Cool Points.

Cool Points are defined as: points taken from an individual when something embarrassing occurs to them causing others to laugh, chuckle, snicker, or scream. "GIVE ME THOSE COOL POINTS!!!!"

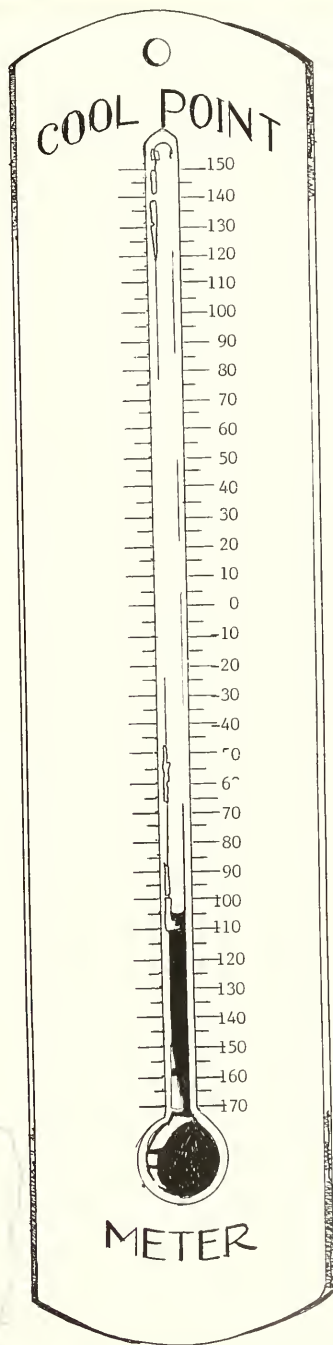

According to C.S. Sturdivant, "Going to the wrong class and staying the entire period is most embarrassing."

Freshmen can definitely relate to that. Some sophomores will agree that walking into the wrong bathroom during co-ed visitation is not something they want their friends to know. As a junior, I believe that pushing on a door marked "pull" results in a major loss of points. Seniors, who supposedly have all their stuff together will tell you that dropping your tray in the cafe is the ultimate for losing Cool Points.

If you do something embarrassing and somebody sees you, just admit it and hand 'em over.

Reecey D.

We're A Team . . .

During the year, we as Eagles came together. Whether it was on a football field to win a victory or just chillin' on the steps in front of the Classroom Building, when we looked around at the crowd, we saw ourselves and realized that we were one . . . a team. Math major, art major, A.K.A., Sigma, athlete, "party animal," member of U.N.I.Q.U.E. or W.P.I.; all different but each the same, a member of the team. Sometimes we met in large numbers. At other times, we met in pairs. Each shining brightly, but shining in a different way.

As a team, we must learn to love . . . love ourselves . . . love our school . . . love our people. We must learn to identify, pursue and achieve our goals. We must learn to stick together.

Togetherness begins in the heart.
Love one another.

... Let's Stick Together

The custom continues. On those days when the sun was out and the weather was comfortable, NCCU students made a point of getting together in front of the Union. We've made it our customary courtyard of congregation and conversation.

And Now For

Although classes and studying take up a large portion of our day, many of us make time for friends and for the ones who require that "tender touch."

Some of us even use our free time to study. Here, Michelle Ratliff uses her 10:40-11:35 break to look over her notes for her next class.

A Break . . .

Sometimes we just have to take a break. Allen Lee and Spencer Stephens prove that the brain can take only so much accounting in one lounging.

Miss North Carolina Central University '90

Ms. Teresa Walker

Miss NCCU 1989-90 wore her crown with pride, respect and dignity representing one of the greatest universities in the world. As the years pass, we will all remember her reign as one that exemplified the "Splendor of Virtue".

Teresa L. Walker is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. Thomas L. Walker of Rocky Mount, North Carolina. Teresa is an English major with a concentration in Media-Journalism. She was member of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., Student Government Association and served in the Freshman and Sophomore Congress. During the 1989-90 academic year, she served on the SGA Executive Board as Community Coordinator. She was a member of the Alpha Delta Sigma Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta English Honor Society, the NCCU English Club and the Baptist Student Union.

Teresa's leadership was exemplary in a number of ways, but her greatest joy was allowing the love of God to shine through her. Teresa served as a summer missionary to Jamaica in 1987. She was elected "Miss Baptist Student Union" in 1987 and served as secretary of the National Baptist Student Union in 1988. In 1989-90 Teresa served as the Spiritual Columnist for the Campus Echo.

Teresa's hobbies included singing and traveling. As a recipient of a prestigious Phelps-Stokes Fund fellowship, she spent three weeks on a tour of West Germany.

Her motto was: "I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me."

Miss NCCU's Coronation

The theme for the coronation of Ms. Teresa Walker, Miss Nccu 1989-90 was "The Splendor of Virtue." The coronation occurred in Hillside High School Auditorium on the evening of October 29, 1989.

The ceremony began with the entrance of the Master and Mistress of Ceremonies, Oland Stokes and Tonya Hood. Honorable guests were introduced and the Royal Procession proceeded.

The Royal Procession consisted of the organizational queens followed by Miss NCCU's Court. Miss NCCU's Court consisted of the queen's first attendant, Terbett Martin, and second attendant, Michelle Johnson, and the class queens; Miss Freshmen, Kia Hardy; Miss Sophomore, Lauren Truitt, Miss Junior, Denita Hicks, and Miss Senior, Stephany Hand. Miss NCCU's flower girl was Chelsey Parrish, her crown bearer was Timothy Price, Jr., her sceptor bearer was Tyrone Cox, and Claude May served as the robe bearer.

The climax of the processional was the grand entrance of Ms. Teresa Walker, Miss NCCU 1989-90. Ms. Walker was escorted by Donald Mason. All heads turned as our elegant queen walked with grace down the isle to be crowned Miss NCCU 1989-90 by the University's chancellor Dr. Tyronea Richmond.

The royal procession and the crowning of Ms. Teresa Walker, as the Miss NCCU 1989-90 shall be remembered by all as "The Splendor of Virtue."

Organizational Queens

Queens

Each year the various student organizations and clubs select one young lady to represent their organization as their organizational queen. These young women are selected not so much for physical beauty, but for content of their character and accomplishments. Each queen reigned for one year and represented the organization at various University functions.

Each of these young women was a full-time undergraduate successfully pursuing a degree in her chosen academic field. The 1989-90 queens represented a broad academic spectrum with majors ranging from Mathematics to Recreation.

Socially and geographically, the queens came from a variety of backgrounds. Their hometowns ranged from New York City to Coats, North Carolina.

North Carolina Central University's Eagle Yearbook staff proudly presents the 1989-90 Organizational Queens.

My Beautiful Black Queen

*I could praise you
For your beauty, your style, your grace,
Or for the beautiful smile
That never leaves you face.*

*But to me these things are frivolous,
For in time these things all fade.
What I praise is the lasting impression
On the world you've made.*

*Since time's beginning you've carried me
Through ages lost and found.
While I dared to dream, it was you
Who kept my feet upon the ground.*

*Through troubled times and terrible days
I've relied on your judgement, wise and sound.
It was from you I trace my history
And from you my origin was found.*

*I owe all that I am to you
And all that I am remains to be seen.
Please accept these humble words
In praise of you, my Beautiful Black Queen.*

Homecoming Parade '89

In the early morning of November 4th, the Eagles and their supporters gathered for the 1989 edition of the Homecoming parade. Various floats, high school and college marching bands, and an assortment of cars representing local and campus organizations glided down Fayetteville Street in the early morning mist.

Chancellor Richmond served as the Grand Marshall. 1989-90 SGA President, Fred Feely rode aboard a float entitled, "NCCU ITS TIME!" The crowd was treated to an array of beauty as class and organizational queens passed in review. Miss NCCU and her court received a royal welcome from the crowd.

The highlight of the parade was the marching bands. The crowd went "stupid crazy" as E.E. Smith and Johnson C. Smith bands "pumped up the volume." The Hillside Hornets stopped the show when they "threw down" to an upbeat dance number. However, the mighty Eagle Marching Band provided the "Funky Beat."

The Homecoming Parade was an exciting way to kick-off Homecoming Day 1989. The students, their friends, family and alumni all had it "Goin' On!"

REFLECTIONS FROM THE SHOW !!!

Choyce

Although North Carolina A & T University has SYBIL, NCCU has its own CHOYCE. CHOYCE was a new singing sensation composed of three young men from NCCU. The singing trio of K-Shawn Etherridge, a junior CIS major from Elizabeth City, NC; Mike Flowers, a junior Music major Willingboro, NJ and Ed Milligan, a junior Criminal Justice major from Jersey City, NJ, amazed their peers with their spectacular debut.

CHOYCE was supported by its dance team composed of Tyrone Daniels, Quame O'Pare, and Marvin Whittle. CHOYCE rocked with a melody of upbeat numbers including their single, "Love It When You Smile."

Although they were the opening act for Regina Belle and Public Enemy, many felt that CHOYCE stole the show.

Love It When You Smile

Since the release of their single, the members of CHOYCE have taken their sudden popularity in stride. Ed, K-Shawn, and Mike could be seen making their way to classes daily, stopping to rap with their many friends and supporters, and faculty.

According to K-Shawn, "We're still the same. We haven't changed. I'm still the guy next door."

While they continue their education, these guys definately have stardom on their minds. With the support of fellow students, faculty, and friends, these three talented young men will catch the "Stardom Express." NCCU's CHOYCE really had it goin' on!

Never-ending Story

Regina Belle

The very beautiful and talented Ms. Regina Belle, Homecoming's second act of the evening, proceeded to mesmerize the audience with her sultry voice and melodies. Known for her heart-felt ballads, she lived up to all expectations with her performance.

Accompanied by two great backup singers she lovingly called her "Divas," Regina displayed poise, wonderful vocal ability, and surprisingly enough, an energetic side not revealed in her latest videos. In other words, the lady threw down! Behind those loving words and slow-tempo tunes, appeared a zesty dancer. During her more upbeat selections, Ms. Belle showed everybody that she's not all about love songs. She could jam with the best of 'em.

After the smoke cleared and things calmed down, Regina gave us a taste of what she's best known for. With sensational ballads like "So Many Tears, Show Me The Way, and Make It Like It Was," she touched the heart of every person who listened. During the rendition of her smash hit, "Baby Come To Me," the crowd even joined along. Towards the end of her show, Ms. Belle sang her newly released song and dedicated it to the men in the audience. Smiling, she told them to be careful since the ladies would always be watching. Because "What Goes Around, Comes Around."

The entire show took us to an unforgettable plateau from which we have yet to return.

Regina takes a moment to pose for a photo with her very talented "Divas."

"All I Want Is Forever."

PUBLIC ENEMY

Fight the Power

Until Saturday, November 4 at approximately 10:00 p.m., many were under the impression that the political rap group, Public Enemy, was no longer together. Rumors of racist statements, violent advocacy of Black Power and other fallacies shadowed the group. North Carolina Central's Homecoming, however, became Public Enemy's place of rebirth. The lights dimmed and the Soldiers of the Third World took to the stage. As an added attraction, the notorious Flavor Flav entered the gym from the rear and jetted out from the audience. The Security of the First World, otherwise known as S1W, held Flav atop their shoulders. His message intensified as the spectators watched a demagogue at work.

The music began and political and cultural awareness was stressed. Chuck D., the main rapper of Public Enemy, paused on occasions to simplify the intention of such song as "Fight the Power" and Rebel Without a Pause." Those who came for the concert were not disappointed for it truly was a forum. Homecoming '89 was a musical rally with a serious political message.

North Carolina Central Eagle Football

The Eagles are always ready for battle.

A conference scout said that the Eagles of North Carolina Central University would undoubtedly soar to new heights. Exemplifying pride, determination, and sportsmanship, they had gained national recognition the previous year with an excellent performance in the NCAA Division II playoffs. But that was then (1988-89), and this is now, (1989-90).

Despite the loss of two great future NCCU Hall of Famers, Robert Massey and Earl "Air" Harvey, the Eagles continued their destruction of opponents with a tenacious defense. Led by the All-American candidate, Harry Fuller; the aggressive, hard-nose play of Rodney "Kiwi" Edmonds; the tough-man tactics of Willie Holmes and Howard University implant, John Royster; our Eagle defense became the CIAA's #1 and the nation's #2 stingiest defense.

Every coin has two sides and the other side of this coin was a late blooming Eagle offense. With the giant cleats of Earl "Air" Harvey to fill, Rick Withcher stepped in as quarterback. But we needed a new approach. We needed an aggressive, "take it to 'em" offense. With moves like Eric Metcalf, power like Hershal Walker, and the diversity of Randall Cunningham, Chris Brewington emerged to rekindle the offense. Brewington rallied the Eagles from a nose-dive during the Fayetteville State game to their rightful position as birds of prey. The offensive line, led by Dominic Wither- spoon, a Freedom Bowl selection, and veterans Willie Buckley and Anthony Sterling, were stalwarts in the trenches.

The Eagles finished their season with a 5-5 record.

Patrick L. Daye

It's not only the glide in his stride, but also the pride in his heart that led us to our victory over JCSU.

He never had a chance against that Eagle defense.

The crowd adored the Eagles.

The Coach

Henry C. "Hank" Lattimore completed his seventh season as head mentor of the North Carolina Central University football program. Since arriving on the NCCU campus in 1978, Lattimore's teams have posted a 63-42-2 overall record (.598) and a 57-15-1 record (.788) in CIAA competition. During the Lattimore era, the Eagles have won the CIAA Football Championship (1980), claimed the CIAA Southern Division crown (1981 & 1982) and have been Southern Division runner-up four times. In 1988, the Eagles advanced to the quarterfinal round of the NCAA Division II Playoffs, posting a 9-2-1 record, the best since 1972 (8-1-1). Prior to his arrival at NCCU, Lattimore was head coach at Morgan State University where his team won a MEAC Championship (1976).

Cheerleaders, Athletes Yes!

In 1989-90, cheerleading at North Carolina Central University became a varsity sports team; the Eagle Cheerleaders were overjoyed. The reclassification of cheerleading as a team sport meant that finally cheerleaders were officially considered athletes. The Junior Varsity Squad was eliminated and the Varsity Squad was expanded from a ten member to a fourteen member squad.

Cheerleading season began two weeks before the first football game and ended with the last basketball game. The Cheerleaders provided "Eagle Spirit" for the football team, and women's and men's basketball teams. In addition, the Cheerleaders represented "Eagle Spirit" at High School Day, Homecoming activities, CIAA Tournament, and Parents' Weekend. Each squad member maintained the required 2.0 GPA. As a squad, the members practiced an average of ten hours per week to perfect various routines and formations.

The backbone of the squad is their advisor, Mrs. Alyce P. Little and Captain, Ms. Phyllis Lawson. Mrs. Little served voluntarily as the cheerleading advisor for ten years. Ms. Lawson is a junior political science major from Lexington, N.C.

The Advisor, Ms. Alyce P. Little

For the past ten years, Mrs. Alyce P. Little has served as the advisor to the NCCU Cheerleaders. Officially, Mrs. Little is an Accountant Technician in the University's Accounts Payable Department. But, just as importantly, she is the Cheerleading Advisor, an alumna and a Durhamite. During the years, over 100 students, men and women, have cheered for the Maroon and Grey under her watchful and caring eye. Many of these students have earned a special place in her heart.

Why volunteer to spend 20 hours of personal time, seven months a year for ten years? Well, Alyce Little, not only knows the University's Alma mater, she believes it. Or, as she simply puts it, "I like to support the school," and "I love working with the students."

NCCU Men's Basketball

Season To Celebrate

As expected, the season for our men's basketball team was nothing less than outstanding. With an overall record of 23 and 5, (13-0 at home), the Eagles maintained their status as a force to be reckoned with in the CIAA.

In the season's finale, the Mighty Eagles soared past the plodding Winston-Salem State Rams to capture their third consecutive CIAA Southern Division title. During the game, the Eagles trailed 43 to 40 with 5:22 left to play. Senior guards, Jeffrey "Blade" Hayes and Antoine "Ice" Sifford, made four big offensive plays and the Eagles seized a 49 to 43 lead with 1:39 left to play.

McDougald Gymnasium erupted with pandemonium unusual even for our high-spirited Eagles when Derrick Leak blocked Jonathan Hardin's driving baseline jumper.

Excitement bounced off the rafters as the crowd rose to its feet chanting "NCCU!!!" As the letters echoed through the air, those fighting birds of prey turned up the heat. "... it's hot in here! There must be an Eagle in the atmosphere!"

The victory over the Winston-Salem State Rams marked the Eagles' 13th straight home win and concluded the fifth 20-game plus season for Head Coach Michael Bernard. This game also evoked an outstanding player accomplishment. Jeffrey Hayes set an NCCU single-season record with 111 assists.

This year's edition of the Fighting Eagles journeyed to the CIAA Tournament in Norfolk, VA. and the NCAA South Regional Finals in Lakeland, FL. In Norfolk, the Eagles were eliminated in the semi-finals losing to Norfolk State, 56 to 59. In Lakeland, they lost a hard-fought battle that went into overtime with Jacksonville State, 88 to 95. After two consecutive appearances in the NCAA Tournament, the Mighty Eagles of NCCU are now known nationwide.

Great season guys. You really had it Goin' On.

Congratulations Coach On Your 100th Win

Coach Michael Bernard obtained his 100th victory, the team's 11th consecutive win this season, over Fayetteville State University, 88-79. In honor of this victory, the team, NCCU officials, and friends arranged a post-game celebration in tribute of the momentous occasion.

Bernard was the third men's basketball coach to win 100 games and the first in NCCU history to win 100 games in less than five seasons.

AUTOGRAPHS

The background of the page is a light cream color, overlaid with a dense, abstract pattern of diagonal lines. These lines are in two shades of gray: a medium gray and a darker charcoal gray. The lines vary in length and thickness, creating a dynamic, textured effect that resembles a stylized rain or a series of overlapping strokes. The lines are oriented diagonally, generally running from the top-left towards the bottom-right, though some are more horizontal or vertical, adding to the complexity of the pattern.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

While in office as Editor of the Eagle Yearbook, I learned not only how to do layouts, edit copy and produce an annual, but I also discovered North Carolina Central University in a whole new light. Never did I imagine the difficulty involved in evoking cooperation and support from the student body and administration.

When I joined the staff in 1987, the last yearbook produced was in 1984, but we (the staff) published all those back issues and the 1987 edition. We were a team then and our teamwork was very effective. In 1989, however, all that changed. Most of the faculty and administration, as well as the student body, did not take their pictures. When asked why, the answers ranged from, "I don't have time" to "My hair just doesn't look right." Taking a picture took only 10 minutes and seniors wore caps. Who would know their hair wasn't right. How could this staff or any other staff put together a "good" yearbook when only half of the university bothered to take pictures?

In my opinion, this particular annual is not a true representation of the university. Or is it? Out of a graduating class of about 600, only 222 seniors are featured here. Out of 870 faculty and staff, about 150 took pictures and out of over 4000 undergrads, only 453 are shown. Could it be that the lack of participation is the perfect representation of NCCU? These people with "no time" and "hair problems", however, did not hesitate to ridicule, complain and criticize when the yearbook got off schedule, wasn't thick enough or lacked photos. My belief is: If you didn't take your picture, you can't complain. People just do not realize how much planning, time and dedication are required to do this job. They don't understand that it's a group thing. One person can not do it alone.

I want to thank those who stuck by me those long nights, weekends and this summer until the book was completed. I also want to thank those who took their pictures and helped us in our efforts to get this 89-90 Eagle Yearbook into everyone's hands.

It Takes A Lot

Despite the many misconceptions of most people, the work required to complete an edition of The Eagle Yearbook is tedious and demanding. Hours of creative writing must go into each article. Copy must be written and rewritten. Detailed sketching is necessary for all layouts. Copy must be fitted, photographs must be taken, sized, and place (with more than 6000 students, this is no easy task).

Alex and Willie look over the books.

Final Reflections Of The

At Work

It all began with hard work and determination. Many members of the yearbook staff dedicated 8 to 10 hours a week covering various school events, doing layout after layout, and writing descriptive articles. It was a tough job, but somebody had to do it. And this staff was that somebody.

"Listen up everybody. We've got lots to do."

"Take another shot just to make sure."

Eagle Yearbook Staff

At Play

When work was completed, this Eagle staff made time for fun, because with hard work came reward. Office time sometimes turned into playtime with jokes, laughter, and music. Every member received a sweatshirt bearing our theme, "We've Got It Goin' On!" This organization is about business, but knows how to have a great time.

Christmas Dinner turned into a comedy show.

We're all one big, cheerful family.
